Using Data for Strategic Consultation and Community Connectedness

Date and Time: Thursday, September 5 2:00 pm - 3:00 pm

Cost: Free

Registration: Webinar Registration - Zoom

"What will this webinar cover? The U.S. federal government requires state refugee coordinators and resettlement agencies to consult with local stakeholders at least quarterly to discuss the capacity of newcomer-receiving communities to welcome refugees. Though explicitly defined, this process does not always achieve the intended outcome of a shared understanding of collective capacity. Lack of efficient coordination of these discussions can lead to significant challenges for service providers assisting newcomers in accessing services. To address these inefficiencies, this webinar will share strategies for leveraging and mapping publicly available data and key stakeholders from public systems to effectively assess community capacities. Highlighting insights from policy experts, the webinar will present ways to identify and share important information across various areas of newcomer integration (e.g., K–12 education, housing) during quarterly consultations and in other community engagement spaces to ensure that defining capacity is grounded in the most relevant available data.

Is this webinar for me? This webinar is designed for newcomer service providers and community stakeholders who want to strengthen their quarterly consultation and community engagement processes in their community or state. This session will also be directly beneficial for resettlement professionals responsible for planning and convening quarterly consultations who want to streamline or improve existing processes.

While not a requirement, Switchboard encourages participants to watch the archived webinar Developing Strategies to Strengthen Quarterly Consultations in Newcomer-Receiving Communities and read the blog post Refugee Quarterly Consultations: Innovative Models for Empowering Community Connections prior to attending this webinar."

Ensuring Cultural Safety: Ethical Considerations for Newcomer Health

Date and Time: Wednesday, September 11 1:00 pm - 3:00 pm

Cost: Free

Registration: <https://newcomernavigation.zoom.us/join/9tJf8yXvAVqjyOpBBcQbkW>

"Speaker: Michelle Mullen, Bioethicist, CHEO, Ottawa, ON

Evidence demonstrates that newcomers, among other potentially identifiable persons, may experience negative encounters in the Canadian health care system. This contributes to health outcomes such that health status may actually worsen after taking up residence in Canada. Structural factors including ethnocentricity, racism and poor understanding of cultures and cultural safety contribute and can give rise to ethical concerns. This interactive learning experience utilizes a case-based approach to demonstrate the potential breadth of concerns that may arise. An ethic rubric will be applied to cases to promote the recognition of these ethical considerations, and, to inform their culturally and ethically appropriate management.

Objectives:

1. Understand structural factors including ethnocentricity and racism which may impact ethical professional practice and newcomer experiences of the Canadian health care system
2. Appreciate the range of these ethical issues utilizing a case based approach
3. Apply an ethics rubric to direct best professional practice in the management of these concerns

As this is a workshop, please be prepared to be active and participating in this session."

Trauma Attachment with Unaccompanied Refugee Minor Clients

Date and Time: Wednesday, September 11 2:00 pm - 3:15 pm

Cost: Free

Registration: Webinar Registration - Zoom

"What will this webinar cover? Throughout their resettlement journey, unaccompanied refugee minors (URMs) often face events and traumatic experiences that may negatively impact their ability to form and maintain positive interpersonal relationships with caregivers and peers. These disruptions can have lasting negative effects on their cognitive, emotional, and social development. This webinar will delve into the impact of trauma from an attachment theory perspective, examining how different attachment styles manifest behaviorally and their implications for mental health and social integration. Participants will also gain insights into practical strategies and interventions to effectively address these challenges and help URMs develop a sense of safety, stability, and security.

Is this webinar for me? This webinar is designed for resettlement service providers who work with unaccompanied refugee minors (URMs), along with URM supporters such as volunteers and foster parents.

Why should I participate? After participating in this 75-minute session, you will be able to:

- Define trauma and explain its impact on attachment and the cognitive, emotional, and social development of URMs
- Recognize the behavioral representations of the four types of attachment
- Apply practical strategies and interventions to alleviate attachment-related challenges URMs experience"

Applying a Trauma-Informed Approach to Nutrition Education for Newcomer Service Providers

Date and Time: Thursday, September 12 2:00 pm - 3:00 pm

Cost: Free

Registration: Webinar Registration - Zoom

"What will this webinar cover?"

This webinar will teach newcomer service providers about nutrition amid trauma and displacement. Leah's Panty specializes in trauma-informed nutrition education that builds and implements community nutrition and food security programs. In this webinar, we will discuss how good and bad experiences affect our food choices. We will also explore the principles of a trauma-informed approach to nutrition security and ways to teach about healthy eating that respect diverse cultures and the unique experiences of newcomers. Participants will be encouraged to reflect on their own relationship with food and how that can affect teaching newcomers about eating well.

Is this webinar for me?

This webinar is for newcomer service providers interested in delivering nutrition education. The webinar will not cover food security or food access topics.

Why should I participate?

After participating in this 90-minute session, you will be able to:

- Describe ways that newcomers have multifaceted and complex experiences with food
- Explain the relationship between positive and adverse experiences and nourishment
- Design trauma-informed nutrition education programs that respond to positive and adverse experiences and that incorporate the different ways we relate to food

- Apply practical approaches for delivering trauma-informed nutrition education to newcomers with compassion and connection"

Cost: Free

Registration: Immigrant and Refugee Mental Health Project: Leadership Course - September, 2024 Survey \(surveymonkey.com\)

"This course is for leaders who are committed to understanding immigrant and refugee mental health and who lead staff working with immigrants and refugees in Canada. This includes organizations in the health, settlement and social service sectors.

This training will help you achieve the following goals:

- Improve your knowledge about the mental health needs of immigrants and refugees and understand the supports newcomers require.
- Introduce organizational strategies that support and improve mental health for immigrants and refugees.
- Develop appropriate policies related to immigrant and refugee mental health.
- Ensure a supportive work environment for staff as they promote the mental health of immigrants and refugees.

The course, which is structured around health equity at all levels of an organization, consists of four sections:

Section 1: Organizational-level health equity

Section 2: Staff-level health equity

Section 3: Service-level health equity

Section 4: Tools and resources

Additionally, you will have access to selected resources, tools and practices from the field.

The self-paced training will take three hours to complete, and is available for six weeks.

This learning activity is part of the Immigrant and Refugee Mental Health Project (IRMHP) at the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health in Toronto and is a supplement to the main online course.

IRMHP is a national, capacity-building initiative to build the knowledge and skills of health, settlement and social service providers to effectively support the mental health of immigrants and refugees. It is funded by Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada.

Establishing Healthy Boundaries for Settlement Sector Workers

Date and Time: Tuesday, September 17 11:00 am - 1:00 pm

Cost: Free for MANSO Members, $20 for Non-MANSO members

Registration: Manitoba Association of Newcomer Serving Organizations | Establishing Healthy Boundaries for Settlement Sector Workers \(silkstart.com\)

"Event Details

Professional boundaries are potentially the most important practice helpers can implement to support our own wellness. They are also the hardest! This workshop will discuss the difference between structural and relational boundaries, the value of clear communication with colleagues and clients, finding our “no,” why letting others help is important, the fluidity of flexible boundaries, and how boundaries help us (and our clients) to grow.

Key Objectives

- Understanding Professional Boundaries
- Enhancing Communication Skills
- Finding and Setting Personal Limits

Facilitator: Kari McCluskey, coordinator of the Vicarious Trauma and Resilience Initiative, Aurora Family Therapy Centre

Kari advocates for integrated wellness practices in the workplace by providing training, consultation and support to those who witness the stories of Canadian newcomers. Kari holds several certificates in trauma response including Harvard Medical School's Global Mental Health: Trauma & Recovery and holds a MA in Peace and Conflict Studies from the University of Manitoba where she is also beginning her PhD journey."

Racism and Discrimination Experienced by Racialized Newcomers When Accessing Settlement Services in Southwestern Ontario

Date and Time: Tuesday, September 17 1:00 pm - 2:00 pm

Cost: Free

Registration: Meeting Registration - Zoom

By Western University's Network for Economic and Social Trends (NEST) and Pathways to Prosperity Partnership (P2P)

This workshop will present the results of a research project examining the barriers, particularly racism and discrimination, experienced by newcomers in accessing settlement services in small and mid-sized communities in Southwestern Ontario. In partnership with Local Immigration Partnerships in eight regions of Southwestern Ontario, semi-structured interviews were conducted with 94 newcomers who had accessed settlement services in these regions and with 15 service providers in the regions. The presenters will discuss the results from this study using an intersectional GBA+ approach, and evidence-based recommendations for improving service accessibility and inclusivity. The knowledge gained fills a gap by focusing on the specific experiences of racism and discrimination that newcomers may face in accessing settlement services, and by working in communities outside of the large metropolises in Canada.

Moderator: Rama Eloulabi, Network for Economic and Social Trends (NEST),

Western University Speakers: Rama Eloulabi, Network for Economic and Social Trends (NEST), Western University Emily Nielsen, Network for Economic and Social Trends (NEST), Western University Zsófia Agoston Völgyesi, Network for Economic and Social Trends (NEST), Western University

Individualized Education Plan (IEP) Process Demystified: Support for Newcomer Families

Date and Time: Wednesday, September 18 1:00 pm - 2:30 pm

Cost: Free

Registration: Webinar Registration - Zoom

"What will this webinar cover?"

Navigating the American education system is a significant challenge for newcomer families and the advocates who support them. For families with children who have, or may have, a disability, this process is even more complex. Newcomer families may be reluctant to pursue special education services for fear their children may face e stigma. This webinar will address key questions for newcomer service providers helping families to navigate special education services. You will walk away with a better understanding of Individualized Education Plans (IEPs) and the process newcomer families must navigate for their children to receive special education services, as well as how to empower families to advocate for, inform, and monitor their child's IEP. Special attention will be paid to demystifying and destigmatizing special education services for newcomer families.

Is this webinar for me?

This webinar is designed for newcomer service providers who work with children, youth, and families and who want to enhance their knowledge related to special education services. This session will also directly benefit educators and other school staff to learn how they can empower families during the IEP process.

Why should I participate?

After participating in this 90-minute session, you will be able to:

- Define what an Individualized Education Plan is and describe the process newcomer families must navigate to access special education services for their child
- Identify common challenges that newcomer families face in accessing and participating in IEP processes
- Apply strategies to help newcomer families overcome challenges, demystify and destigmatize special education services, and participate actively in IEP processes"

Improving Access to Mental Health Services for Newcomer Children and Their Families: Insights from a Citizen Panel and Stakeholder Dialogue

Date and Time: Wednesday, September 18 1:00 pm - 2:00 pm

Cost: Free

Registration: https://newcomernavigation.zoom.us/webinar/register/7417163168597/WN_SO4oDK8fSvCEblqrgV6f6w

The migration journey of children, youth and their families who are newcomers to Canada can be a complex and stressful experience. A growing body of research evidence has documented the mental health challenges facing this group, the need to improve access to care, and to reimagine how mental health services are organized to address their needs. This webinar will provide participants with a summary of the key insights that emerged from a citizen panel and stakeholder dialogue convened on this topic, where best evidence was considered alongside views and experiences to help identify next steps to address this challenge.

Learning objectives:

- To understand the process used by the McMaster Health Forum to convene citizens, government policy makers, organizational and system leaders, professional leaders and researchers to deliberate about the issue of improving access to mental health services for children and youth who are newcomers to Canada
- To learn from those involved in the process about the key insights that emerged in terms of the problem(s) driving the issue, potential policy solutions for addressing them, implementation considerations and viable next steps for different constituencies
- To learn about how this work fits into the broader context of efforts to support children, youth and their families who are newcomers to Canada

Addressing Child Violence in Migration: Socio-Ecological Strategies

Cost: Free

Registration: Addressing Child Violence in Migration: Socio-Ecological Strategies Registration, Wed, 18 Sep 2024 at 1:30 PM | Eventbrite

"Description:

This webinar addresses the critical issue of child violence within the migration journey, focusing on the identification of signs of violence and the complex factors within the socio-ecological model that contribute to these vulnerabilities. It will highlight the role of Adverse Childhood Experiences in shaping the mental health of migrating children.

Participants will explore practical interventions grounded in Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion principles, equipping direct service providers with strategies to support and protect these children at individual, family, community, and societal levels, ensuring a holistic and inclusive approach to their well-being and mental health.

Speaker:

Zeina Ismail-Allouche, PhD, Director of Partnerships and Program Development, Canadian Practitioners Network for the Prevention of Extremist Violence

Zeina Ismail-Allouche has a PHD in Social Sciences and Arts with over 25 years of experience in the field of child protection, gender-based violence, and child trafficking for illegal transracial/international adoption practices. She has assumed leadership positions within numerous international organizations.

Zeina has contributed to international initiatives promoting family strengthening to prevent separation and led integrated reform initiatives to reform the child protection sector in many countries. She collaborated with Georgetown University to design and deliver a child protection specialist training program with a focus on interdisciplinary and comprehensive case management. She developed a policy on child protection for media (UNICEF Lebanon).

Zeina is an oral history/autoethnography storyteller and performer grounded in Indigenous methodologies and decolonized research practice. She contributed to various publications advocating for child protection."

Join us for the ARI Webinar, "Integrated Employment Services: Changes, Challenges & Gains for Newcomers," on September 18, 2024, from 1:30 to 3:30 PM EDT.

As part of the ARI Knowledge Exchange Events, this webinar will bring together experts to explore recent chan ges in Integrated Employment Services (IES) and their specific impacts on newcomers, with a focus on privately sponsored refugees (PSRs).

Key Discussion Points:

- What is Integrated Employment Services (IES), and what changes has it introduced?
- How are employment service organizations adapting to the changes under Employment Services Transformation?
- What experiences have organizations had with these transformations?
- How have IES changes influenced the job search process for newcomers?
- What is the specific impact of IES on privately sponsored refugees (PSRs)?
- What roles do Sponsorship Agreement Holders (SAHs) play in assisting PSRs in their job search?
- Why is it crucial for PSRs to secure employment before the 12-month mark, and how can sponsors and settlement workers collaborate effectively to support this goal?
- Are there successful strategies that sponsors can implement to assist PSRs in their job search?

"Join the Society of Refugee Healthcare Providers and Adrien Matadi for a Q&A session about community health navigation refugees and newcomers.

I am Adrien Matadi and I was born in Kinshasa in the Democratic Republic of Congo, then known as Zaire. I served under Mobutu's regime as a Peace Officer in the Special Unit and was posted in Egypt and Sudan for 6 years.

rs.

I used to be a Care Navigator at Denver Health for 9 years, and now I am a Project Specialist. As a Care Navigator, I focused much of my work on in the Denver Health Refugee Clinic as a refugee intake and scheduling specialist. Now, I work in developing standard work for different projects such as Latent Tuberculosis Infection known as LTBI, Linkage to care, Covid 19 Outreach, etc. I have been in Colorado for 17 years and I have been working with refugees since my arrival in March 2006. I started working with refugees in 1997 when I became a refugee myself. Back in Ethiopia, I earned different positions in the refugee communities such as advisor to field director of Jesuit Refugee Service, Urban Refugee Coordinator with UNHCR, ARRA (Administration for Refugees and Returnees Affairs), and all NGOs dealing with refugees. While in exile, I earned a law degree in Humanitarian and Human Rights Law and associate degree in Auto-Mechanics in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. I also hold CCNA certificate in Computer Science and several other public health related certificates.

This session will be an informal, discussion format. There will be no slides or presentation, but an opportunity for participants to ask any questions they have about community health navigation for newcomer populations. Please submit your questions ahead of time through the registration form or by emailing sarah@refugeesociety.org.

Addressing the Mental Health Needs of Unaccompanied Afghan Minors (UAMs): Key Research Findings

Date and Time: Tuesday, September 24 1:00 pm - 2:30 pm

Cost: Free

Registration: Webinar Registration - Zoom

"WHAT WILL THE WEBINAR COVER? Newcomer youth, particularly unaccompanied youth (i.e., arriving without a biological parent or legal guardian), typically experience trauma with long-term mental health impacts throughout their migration journeys. There are multi-system factors and players involved in the resettlement of unaccompanied Afghan minors (UAMs), specifically those that arrived from Afghanistan to the U.S. following the takeover by the Taliban. While mental health can be a new and/or taboo topic for many communities, it is important for caregivers and providers to raise the issue with clients, especially UAMs. Understanding the unique needs of UAMs is essential for caregivers and providers to identify and address mental health challenges with cultural sensitivity and equity.

This webinar—presented by the Boston College Research Program on Children and Adversity, in partnership with Switchboard—will explore the needs of unaccompanied Afghan youth by highlighting the results of a recent project: “Understanding Needs and Strengths that Affect Mental Health Among Unaccompanied Afghan Minors (UAM) in Resettlement.” The webinar is designed to accompany the evidence-based summary: What Strategies Support The Mental Health Of Unaccompanied Refugee Minors?

IS THIS WEBINAR FOR ME? This webinar is aimed at stakeholders interested in the health and wellbeing of newly arrived UAMs, including but not limited to direct service providers, school staff, researchers, agency leaders, and policymakers who work with newcomers, particularly those who work alongside unaccompanied youth.

Building Cultural Competency Training

Date and Time: Wednesday, September 25 11:00 am - 6:00 pm

Cost: Free

Registration: Manitoba Association of Newcomer Serving Organizations | Building Cultural Competency Training \(silkstart.com\)

"Event Details

The Building Cultural Competency Training was created to address the need for comprehensive education on the history and impacts of the Indian Act and Indian Residential Schools in Canada, with a particular focus on Indigenous women and gender-diverse individuals. This training aims to provide an accurate and thorough understanding of these topics, both historically and in their current realities.

In this training, you will learn:

- History of Colonization in Canada: Understand the origins and development of colonization and its enduring effects on Indigenous communities.
- Colonial Impacts on Indigenous Women, Girls, and Two-Spirit People: Explore how colonial policies and practices have uniquely affected Indigenous women, girls, gender-diverse, and two-spirit individuals.
- Traditional Roles of Women and the Impact of Colonization: Learn about the traditional roles of Indigenous women, and how colonization disrupted these roles and community structures.
- Lived Experiences: Hear stories that illustrate the ongoing impacts of colonization on Indigenous women and gender-diverse people.

- Resources and When to Use Them: Gain knowledge of available resources and understand the appropriate contexts for utilizing these resources.

Target Audience: Front line staff who have a newcomer background

Sargent Tommy Prince Place is a fully accessible facility.

Due to limited capacity, we ask that a maximum of 3 individuals from a single organization register. If more than 3 individuals from the same organization are interested in the training, please contact Adia Koodoo at a.koodoo@mansomanitoba.ca

Lunch will be provided, please note any dietary restrictions you may have.

Facilitators: Brian McLeod and Marcy Richard

Brian McLeod is a member of Treaty 5, Misipawistik Cree Nation. Brian lives in Treaty 1 territory and currently works as an Elder/Knowledge Keeper at the Native Clan Manitou House. Brian also provides training workshops and presentations on historical and current relations between Indigenous and non-Indigenous people in Canada through Strong Heart Consultation. He brings over 25yrs. of trust building with Indigenous and non-Indigenous communities and organizations throughout the province of Manitoba and in Canada.

Marcy Richard is a member of Gigaanaawenimaanig (the Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women, Girls and Two-Spirit Implementation Committee). Marcy is a retired public servant of over 30 years whose tenure included Health Canada. Her multi-faceted expertise includes the development of training and outcomes for the Building Cultural Competency training with added perspectives of Colonial impacts on Indigenous women, girls and two-spirit people and timelines that occurred throughout the implementation of the Indian Act, Traditional roles of women and how colonization impacted these roles, Resources, and when to use them.

Trigger warning and crisis support

This training session will include content that may be triggering to some participants; topics may include violence, sexual abuse, physical abuse, among others. We encourage all participants to prioritize their wellbeing, safety and security. All participants can step away from the session if needed.

If you are in need of immediate or crisis support during or after the session, please reach out to the Klinik Crisis Line. Klinik provides free and confidential counselling, support and referrals for people who are experiencing thoughts of suicide, are in crisis or are struggling to cope. A Research Matters event: The connection between climate change and migration in Southern Mexico

Date and Time: Wednesday, September 25 1:30 pm - 3:00 pm

Cost: Free

Registration: Microsoft Virtual Events Powered by Teams

Over 68% of the population in Mexico is affected by climate-related disasters, creating a growing trend of internal displacement and migration. This presentation covers the findings of the survey by the International Organiza tion for Migration (IOM) to provide a better understanding of environmental migration in agriculture and resource-dependent communities in southern Mexico.

Join us as we reflect on IRCC's current and future role in environmental migration, while exploring:

- strategies to support or collaborate with other countries to manage environmental migration and reduce pressures on Canada's immigration system;
- the impact of environmental and climate factors on human mobility, migration patterns, and migration decisions;
- the application of evidence-based data on environmental migration for informed policymaking.

Presentation – for IRCC employees (GCDOCS)

Presentation – for external participants (GCcollab)

Slido (Q&A \ Feedback questionnaire)

This presentation will be recorded so please ensure that your camera is turned off and your microphone is on mute throughout the event.

We look forward to having you attend the event!"

Getting Started with Psychosocial Support Groups: Three Successful Models

Date and Time: Thursday, September 26 1:00 pm - 2:00 pm

Cost: Free

"What will this webinar cover?"

Many communities lack culturally informed mental health services tailored to newcomers. Even when such services exist, barriers like stigma, language access, transportation, and time constraints limit client access. Mainstream mental health services often prioritize severe symptoms and have long waitlists. Psychosocial groups at resettlement offices or community locations can offer valuable support while addressing these barriers. During this webinar, we will hear from experienced group facilitators and explore three different models of psychosocial support groups— looking at the challenges and successes of each.

Is this webinar for me?

This webinar is designed for direct service providers, supervisors, and program managers in resettlement who are interested in learning about and implementing psychosocial groups at their agency.

Why should I attend? After attending this 75-minute webinar, you will be able to:

- Explain the essentials of initiating newcomer psychosocial support groups, including structuring, resourcing, and facilitating groups
- Analyze three different models of psychosocial support groups, including their successes and challenges"

Registration: Email amber.parker@saisia.ca

"SAISIA PD Opportunity

SAISIA is happy to share an upcoming professional development opportunity with the Saskatchewan sector. On Friday, September 27, 2024 from 2:00-3:30 pm, Saskatchewan Deaf and Hard of Hearing Services (SDHHS) will offer a webinar as part of SAISIA's participation in the GBA Plus National Capacity project funded by IRCC.

The webinar will be held on Zoom and led by Alanda Mcleod and Rae-Mairi Richardson, Sign Support Professionals with SDHHS. The session will be delivered in American Sign Language, with interpretation services provided. The first part of the webinar will feature an overview of SDHHS' services and supports available across the province to those who are D/deaf or hard of hearing, which newcomers and their families may benefit from. The second part will include an introduction to Deaf Culture in Canada and a discussion of how cultural norms in Deaf communities differ from those of hearing communities as well as a discussion on how audism may impact newcomers pre- and post-arrival. There will be time at the end of the webinar for Q&A.

Please circulate this invite within your organizations. You can register for this webinar by emailing our GBA Plus Research Coordinator, Amber Parker at amber.parker@saisia.ca with your name and the name of your organization, as well as your job title. Registrations will be accepted until Thursday, Sept. 26."
