2021 Prairies & Northern Territories Fall Summit

Date and Time: Wednesday, December 1 11:30 am - 5:15 pm

The 2021 Prairies and Northern Territories Fall Summit is a collaboration between AAISA (Alberta Association of Immigrant Serving Agencies), SAISIA (Saskatchewan Association of Immigrant Settlement Integration Agencies) and MANSO (Manitoba Association of Newcomer Serving Organizations). These are non-profit umbrella organizations representing agencies that provide resettlement, settlement, and integration services to newcomers in the respective provinces.

Each organization hosts an annual conference for their members, as part of their mandate to provide leadership and support to members and to help increase the level of service to newcomers through professional development, networking and collaboration. This November we're excited to bring the 2021 Prairies & Northern Territories Fall Summit in a virtual format that provides a unique opportunity to join together and provide attendees with expanded programming and inter-provincial best practice sharing.

The Importance of Family, Friend, and Neighbor Care for Immigrant and Dual Language Learner Families

Date and Time: Wednesday, December 1 1:00 pm - 2:00 pm

Migration Policy Institute (MPI) | Institut des politiques migratoires (IPM)

Webinar | Webinaire (1:00 – 2:00 PM ET | 13h00 – 14h00 HE)

Child care provided by family, friends, and neighbors (FFN) has long been critical in supporting immigrant and Dual Language Learner (DLL) families who are seeking to find safe, affordable, and culturally and linguistically relevant child-care options for their young children. While FFN caregivers offer important and resource-intensive services to these families, these types of care continue to be left out of policy conversations, professional development efforts, and funding considerations. With FFN care providers and the families that depend on them already significantly underserved by child-care and other systems, efforts to expand and improve child care that fail to take account of their needs may ultimately exacerbate gaps in quality and equity.

In this webinar, MPI Senior Policy Analyst Maki Park will provide an overview of a new policy brief she coauthored that discusses the importance of FFN care for immigrant and DLL families as well as barriers that immigrant-serving FFN caregivers face in accessing subsidies and other public supports. Lorena Garcia, Executive Director of the Colorado Statewide Parent Coalition (CSPC), will speak about program and policy approaches to more equitably serve FFN caregivers that CSPC has supported in Colorado. Natalie Renew, Director of Home Grown, will discuss opportunities to leverage historic new investments contemplated for child-care systems to better support FFN care providers and the families in their care.

Moderator | Modérateur :

- Margie McHugh, Director, National Center on Immigrant Integration Policy, MPI

- Maki Park, Senior Policy Analyst for Early Education and Care, Migration Policy Institute (MPI)

Information session - Futures of Settlement

Date and Time: Thursday, December 2 1:00 pm - 2:30 pm

We are imagining a new way for our sector to come together and imagine equitable futures. We call this community the Futures of Settlement.

About this event

The future of settlement is happening now. We have all observed the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic and the use of technology and automation on newcomers' ability to gain and maintain employment, on access to education and service delivery within the Canadian Settlement sector.

We are imagining a new way for our sector to come together and imagine equitable futures. We call this community the Futures of Settlement.

This is an invitation to share what it would look like if you could wave a magic wand and change the way we meet the needs of Newcomers and to shift the way your organization, funder, sector are serving Newcomers now.

Together, we will imagine versions of alternative futures based and map out actions needed to get there.

As we embark on this journey, we are looking for dreamers and skeptics alike to join us because imagining equitable futures is not about preferred futures, but rather a balance of power, authority and resources.

We will build scenarios of what the future might look like from the stories and perspectives of frontline Settlement Practitioners and Immigrants.

By participating in the Futures of Settlement, you will practice stretching your imagination and sharing in collective visioning.

Join us for this information & welcome session on to learn more about what we are imagining, how you can join us and what you will get out of being a part of the Futures of Settlement.

“The Revolutionary Art of Love: From Romantic Love to Global Compassion” a conversation with author Bianca Briciu

Date and Time: Wednesday, December 15 12:00 pm - 1:00 pm

The Providence School of Transformative Leadership and Spirituality presents:

“The Revolutionary Art of Love: From Romantic Love to Global Compassion” a conversation with author Bianca Briciu

DATE : Wednesday, December 15, 2021

TIME : Noon to 1 pm EST (streaming live via Zoom), recording will be available after event

Registration link: <https://us06web.zoom.us/meeting/register/tZYlceyprTloG9LvfhPEVnhjEJIEYTHHRjfy>

What is the transformative potential of love and how can we develop our capacity for love? In this new book, Bianca Briciu, assistant professor of the Providence School of Transformative Leadership and Spirituality, invites us to explore the revolutionary art of love. The book launch event will feature a conversation with author Bianca Briciu about the main themes of the new book that deconstructs cultural myths about love and shows its potential. The conscious, intentional commitment to the practice of love leads to interconnectedness, wholeness and a life lived from the heart.

Synopsis of the book:

The Revolutionary Art of Love: From Romantic Love to Global Compassion offers a complex description of love as a personal emotion and as an intersubjective, ethical experience of connection. Its purpose is to deconstruct cultural myths about love, proposing instead a framework for understanding love's contribution to the well-being of individuals and social systems. The uniqueness of the book lies in its interdisciplinary scope, articulating love as a form of connection to the self, others, and the world in general. It examines its role in mental health, sexuality, emotional intelligence and social responsibility. Bianca Briciu's bold new book is an invitation to reclaim the power of the human heart from institutional constraints by redefining love as a complex human capability, similar to intelligence or creativity. The cultivation of love opens us to the ethics of interconnectedness and responsibility of caring for life. Framing love as a revolutionary art articulates the subtleties of different experiences of love as expressions of an insufficiently explored human capability with transformative potential.

Implementing research on impact of family loss & separation on refugee youth

Date and Time: Wednesday, December 15 1:00 pm - 2:00 pm

Join the Immigrant and Refugee Mental Health Project's monthly webinar series!

About this event

Description:

This webinar speaks the story of separated refugee youth that experience numerous challenges in their settlement impacting their mental health and well-being, and our evidence informed call for action strategies for systemic uptake of those findings into practices. Social determinants of health including language barriers, discrimination, settlement process delay, limited access to education, challenges finding affordable accommodation and employment are key factors impacting the youth. The separation from home, family and culture was a significant stressor. They experience MH problems like PTSD, depression, and anxiety. Protective factors which support youth include a caring community, connection with peers, faith and support from community programs and services. Support from community programs includes both support with system navigation as well as social, recreational and skills development programming. Therapeutic interventions, including Cognitive Behavioural therapy with cultural modifications were found to be effective.

About the speaker:

Akm Alamgir, a mixed-method community-based researcher, is the Manager, Quality and Accountability Systems; and the Scientist, Research and Evaluation Department of Access Alliance, a community health center at Toronto. He earned a PhD in evaluation, a Master's degree in epidemiology, and a bachelor's in medicine. He practices a co-production approach for intersectional analysis in research and evaluation for understanding the social determinants of health for vulnerable communities.

Two of his current research projects are- (i) Impact of family loss and separation on refugee youth (CYRRC funded), and (ii) Parenting experience of Syrian refugee neo-parents (SSHRS funded). His manuscripts are published in peer-reviewed journals.

Date and Time: Thursday, December 16 8:00 am - 5:00 pm

Cost:

NGO - Full Event $95 CAD

Regular - Full Event $125 CAD

Student - Full Event $75 CAD

Migration is a reality that has shaped humanity since the dawn of time. Accelerated by globalization and climate change, it is today a major issue for the countries of the francophone world. These countries spread over the five continents are at the same time places of departure, transit, destination and reception of migrants. Despite the great diversity of realities within the Francophone world, all of these countries have in common the challenges and opportunities created by migratory flows.

The Metropolis Francophonie Mondiale (MFM) Conference proposes to create an opportunity for dialogue and knowledge sharing on the complex issues of migration by opening the door to all stakeholders within the Francophonie.

Based on the model of the annual Metropolis Canada and Metropolis North America events, the Metropolis Francophonie Mondiale Conference (MFM) will annually convene representatives from academia and think-tanks, policy makers and governments, civil society organizations, as well as international institutions originating from or affiliated with Francophone countries, including those who are directly affected by forced or voluntary migration.

The MFM Conference is now inviting submissions for workshops, roundtables and individual presentations.

Implement. research on impact of fam. loss & separation on refugee youth

Date and Time: Monday, December 20 1:00 pm - 2:00 pm

Implementation research on impact of family loss and separation on refugee youth with Dr. Akm Alamgi, Manager, Quality and Accountability Systems; and the Scientist, Research and Evaluation Department of Access Alliance.

Monday, December 20th, 2021: 1:00-2:00pm EST

Description:

“This webinar speaks the story of separated refugee youth that experience numerous challenges in their settlement impacting their mental health and well-being, and our evidence informed call for action strategies for systemi c uptake of those findings into practices. Social determinants of health including language barriers, discrimination, settlement process delay, limited access to education, challenges finding affordable accommodation and employment are key factors impacting the youth. The separation from home, family and culture was a significant stressor. They experience MH problems like PTSD, depression, and anxiety. Protective factors which support youth include a caring community, connection with peers, faith and support from community programs and services. Support from community programs includes both support with system navigation as well as social, recreational and skills development programming. Therapeutic interventions, including Cognitive Behavioural therapy with cultural modifications were found to be effective.”
